Consultation Assessment and Justification

Good Morning Helen,

Further to the response by the applicant, given that the works are now complete it would be abortive work for a CMP to be provided and given that a condition survey was not undertaken prior to the works, there is no means of determining whether any damage to the highway was attributable to said works. Furthermore, if the existing turning head was used for parking previously and managed internally to facilitate deliveries or larger vehicles, I am content for this arrangement to continue.

Many Thanks

Sarah Sharp
Senior Engineer
