THE CROSS INN
SUMMER LANE ROYSTON
S71 4SE

Design:
Situated in a residential area. The Cross Inn Royston is a circa mid18th century stone built 2 storey typical public house although may have been a domestic residence the east (front road) elevation features semetrical bay windows & slate pitched roofs, one gable is in matching stone face & the other in render leading us to believe that is was at one time an end terrace property.
The property has been extended/altered several times, circa 19th century to form extended toilet facilities.

Access:
The public house is subject to operators DDA audit the proposals improve level access as currently access is via stepped access to both the front & back

Although situated in a residential area & serves as a community pub Royston is served by local bus routes from Wakefield & Barnsley
