PitStop Productions Statement of Support to Barnsley College

Following the completion of the build of PitStop Production's new state of the art Sound Design Creation Centre (SDCC) we are pleased to be able to offer our support to Barnsley College to help to add value to their courses and enhance the learning opportunities of their students.

We see this as an ongoing commitment over many years and is vital to being able to provide real world experience for students who would otherwise not have this opportunity. We see this as an important step to elevate the quality of our industry and increase the chances of people from our local community being able to secure good jobs in the industry following completion of their studies.

We are prepared to set aside staff time for guest lectures both at our site and at Barnsley College campus with opportunities for students to be able to visit our site and get hands on experience with some of our award-winning audio teams in our purpose-built studios.

Within the next few years, and once the business is of the size where this is feasible, we would also like to extend the opportunity of apprenticeship roles within our teams as well as short term work experience placements alongside our team.

In conclusion we feel that the partnership between PitStop Productions and Barnsley College to be long and prosperous one for both entities and enhances the level of skill of the industry's future.
